Rabbi Joel Fleekop

From the Rabbi

I want to take this opportunity to thank everyone for the love and support our Temple community has extended to my family and me in the wake of my mother's passing. Your care and compassion are a true source of comfort during this difficult time.

Below is the eulogy I shared at my mother's funeral. I hope it offers a glimpse of who she was and the blessings she shared with me.

L'shalom,
Rabbi Joel

On the third Shabbat in November, long before she had seen a full measure of seasons, my mom's life came to a close. Departed at 67 years young, it is tempting to say she didn't have enough time. But my mom never measured life in years. Life, she taught us, is measured by how many people you impact. And so, despite being brief, she led a very full life.

Jackie touched countless lives as a Jewish educator, as a community leader with a passion for social justice and tikkun olam, and as a true friend to so many.

Of course, the lives she touched most profoundly are those of her family. My siblings and I always felt lucky Jackie was our mom. She had an inexhaustible amount of love and wisdom to share. As her children we were blessed to be students in a decades long course in living, taught by one of the world's foremost experts in the field.

She was my teacher, my role model, and my friend. She always will be.

There are so many memories that I will cherish. Silly things, like my mom's unique way of tucking me in – only Jackie would add tickling and laughter to a bedtime ritual – and more serious moments – dancing together at my wedding, the first time she held Yael or met Maya.

I remember picking pears together at Pennsbury Manor, drives from Reno up to Truckee just to get ice cream at Bud's – a combination ice cream parlor and tackle shop, and camping together in Southern Utah. We had so many adventures together, but the destination was always secondary. What mattered most was just being together. Being with Mom was a guarantee to have fun, to learn something interesting, to feel special and know you were loved.

I hope and pray that in the years to come, when I think about my mom, it is these images of her, full of life, which will come to mind. But I also hope I will remember one our last conversations together. I want to remember it because it was quintessential Jackie.

We were in the ICU, a day before her transfer to hospice. She was dying and she knew it. I was there to comfort her but her concern was for us. She wasn't afraid of dying – she was worried about how we and our families would handle her death. And so, there she was, giving me a list of books I should use to explain death – her death – to my children, her grandchildren.

Even in her last days, she was still our teacher.

My mom's laugh and cry were nearly indistinguishable. When she laughed she cried. Even when she cried, she so often found a reason to laugh. Tears and laughter mixed together -- that is the way my mom lived. That is the way she would want us to grieve her now.

She would want us to mourn her loss, but also to tell stories, to laugh at memories of happier times. Most of all, she would want us to take those memories and the example she set for us, and use it as inspiration to be our best selves.

Zichrona L'vracha

May her memory be for a blessing.

“Life, she taught us, is measured by how many people you impact.”

Mother and Child by Sami Briss

It is with deep sadness we announce the passing of Rabbi Joel's mother, Jacqueline Fleekop, Saturday, November 16.

Temple Beth El extends heartfelt condolences to Rabbi Joel, Andrea, Yael and Maya and his entire family.

A woman of valor seek her out; she is to be valued above rubies.

Zichrona Livracha
May her memory be for a blessing.

From the President

According to Reform Magazine's Jewish Life Words, schmooze is an English language word that comes from the Yiddish verb "schmues" and means to chat informally, but stems from the old Hebrew noun sh'mu'ot which means things that are heard. I would like to schmooze with you about our Temple family. Last high holy days I spoke to you of commitment and requirements of our progressive Jewish community here in Pensacola that extends beyond just paying dues. To become a welcoming congregation really requires that everyone who enters our doors feels they have become a member of our family.

Some will come and depart looking for other Jewish venues, some will join as members and others will want to wait for a period of time to gain a sense of how much we value each person in the congregation. If there was a description of Temple Beth El, it should be that we are a welcoming and innovative reform congregation.

Our Board is composed of members of the congregation and they are people who are available to talk and listen to congregants. No one should feel that they are paying membership dues to be a cog. We have made a considerable effort to ensure members appreciate that they matter to the Temple. Our website reflects a list of names that are available to accept your recommendations as well as your complaints. Please recognize that our congregation continues to be populated with a wonderful group of Jews and our programs clearly reflect our earnest efforts to meet the diverse needs of our congregational family. The weekly email, Temple Bulletin and notices are an effort to do business in a new welcoming way with total transparency. I want the congregation to feel that they are talking to real people.

Make no mistake we have a long way to go, but communications are a two-way street. We need you to feel comfortable in telling us what you think. In the near future we hope to be placing before the congregation, for your approval, a modernization plan to make our Temple campus more welcoming, and a Temple Beth El Long Range Plan to serve as a guide for the future.

These efforts reflect what you have told us you want during recent surveys and interviews. After all, congregants are our best problem solvers.

The job of leadership is to be in constant conversation about where we should go, as well as communicating how things are going. Our ultimate success will be measured by how easy it is to enter our congregation from the outside and how easy it is for congregants to understand and help shape the inside. Our Rabbi is not the only one who weaves a sermon. Our Temple Beth El conversation is woven into a sermon that reflects who we are and what we are to become.

Your input is essential since you are at once both leaders and members at the same time. Let us hear from you.

L'Shalom,

Fred

Sisterhood Notes

Shalom, Y'all:

November was very exciting...lots going on!! We had a huge arts and crafts and gifts fair (great job, Marty!!!) as part of our gift shop's Hanukkah celebration. We even sold artwork from our own artists-in-residence, and some of those beautiful pieces are still available. Check it out!!

Our luncheon was delicious, once again catered by Signature Catering, and very informative. At this well attended event we all learned the importance of the Big Brothers and Sisters Program, and the impact we could make on a young person's life. And of course we all got to schmooze with our best buds in Sisterhood, which is the best part!

December's luncheon will be on Wednesday, December 18, at 11:45 at Temple. The topic will be "Caring for Your Skin" (and believe me, I'm there!!!), led by makeup professional Mark Lee, and as an added bonus, a peek at holiday fashions. Come join us and learn how to stay as young and beautiful as you are. (or want to be).

The end of the year brings the beginning of SHOW-TIME!! Yes, it's about time to begin that old devil rehearsing. If you are interested in joining us, we usually rehearse on Sunday evenings, but it is always subject to discussion. The date of the show is May10, 2014 (a Saturday night), and I promise you an evening you'll never forget. Let Renee know if you are interested – 404-547-6028, or email rmoore40@yahoo.com.

All monies go towards camp scholarships, so join us one way or another.

January and February bring bingo night, luncheons, and Sisterhood Shabbat, so stay tuned for more info.

Have a happy, healthy new year, and remember....

Life is a Cabaret!!

Kitchen Kibbitz by Janet Schilling

I hope you are all still enjoying the earliest Hanukkah ever! As this is a once in our lifetime event I enjoyed the challenge of searching for recipes that would help define this historic occasion. And I think I found a few that would not only lend themselves to this unique celebration, but just might be keepers for the future. For some reason though I usually equate chestnuts more with the Christmas season, they kept popping up in the search for Thanksgiving creations. So even though the two holidays are finally separated by a month and Hanukkah should be free of all Christmas associations, apparently the food writers have found a way to sneak in one or two. The recipe for chestnut hummus is a nice departure from the norm. And you know you still have a turkey leg or two left over, so why not try the Challah, Chestnut and Cranberry Stuffing. Sending good wishes to you and yours. Keep posting those pictures on Facebook.

We're making history!!!

Chestnut Hummus with Pita Chips

10 oz. roasted chestnuts
1/2 c. tahini paste
1 large garlic clove
1/2 - 1 c. water
Juice of 1 lemon
1/2 tsp. cumin
1/4 c. extra virgin olive oil
Salt and pepper to taste
Add all ingredients to a food processor or blender. Puree until smooth. If the hummus is too thick, add more water until desired consistency is reached.

Thanksgiving Pita Chips

3 pitas cut into wedges
Extra virgin olive oil
1 tsp granulated garlic
1 tsp dried rosemary
1 tsp dried thyme
1/2 tsp ground sage
1/2 tsp kosher salt
Add all the spices to a bowl and break up herbs with your fingers. Brush the pita wedges with olive oil and sprinkle spice mixture on the chips. Bake at 400 degrees for 15-20 minutes until golden and crispy.

Cranberry Chestnut and Challah Stuffing

2 Tbsp olive oil
1 large onion, coarsely chopped
4 celery stalks, coarsely chopped
1 cup roasted and peeled chestnuts, quartered
1 cup dried cranberries
1/4 cup finely chopped fresh sage
2 Tbsp finely chopped fresh parsley
8 cups cubed challah
2 cups chicken broth
1 tsp kosher salt
1 tsp freshly ground black pepper
Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Heat the olive oil in a large Dutch oven or oven-proof sauté pan over medium high heat. Sauté the onions and celery until softened and the onion is translucent, 8-10 minutes. Add the chestnuts, cranberries, sage, and parsley and cook 2 minutes more. Stir in the challah, chicken broth, salt and pepper. Remove from the heat. Cover and bake for 30 minutes. Uncover and bake until lightly browned, 10 minutes more.

SHALOM FROM ERETZ ISRAEL

I hope you guys are doing great. The kibbutz is beautiful with blooming flowers of all colors and different fruit trees with ripe fruit. It's so peaceful. There is no road noise---just the chirping of all kinds of birds. There are date trees dropping fruit. Food from the sky?

I am now a citizen of Israel and am very happy to be here.

My first 'Israeli breakfast' was had at a coffee shop. I have seen pictures and read about this but it really is fantastic. Eggs, fruit, veggies and the bread with spreads. The bread and the coffee could have made me a meal but I couldn't resist the rest. Some of you know what I mean and the rest of you just eat your hearts out. You should come to experience this.

I have been asked, "are you ready for kibbutz living?"

This is perfect--quiet, peaceful, laid back living with great people and beautiful scenery. I should have done this 40 years ago. Everyone welcomes and says "Mazal tov" to Oleh hadash.

I am now known as Yoni to all Michele knows.

Health, happiness and long life to y'all,

John Fuqua

Educator's Message: Attitude of Gratitude

We live in a time and place that measures success by the things we possess: money, titles, homes, and cars, to name a few. Our children also live in this world, and they too want the latest toy or gadget to show off to their friends. Being bombarded with the commercialization of Hanukkah and Christmas only adds more pressure to this trend. Rather than acquiesce each time and encourage the value of greed, how can we instill an attitude of gratitude in ourselves and in our children?

Feeling satisfied with our lot and saying no to our children is easier said than done. In our parent book group discussion last month, this is a topic we discussed based upon some strategies listed in Dr. Wendy Mogel's best-selling book, "Blessing of a Skinned Knee."

Dr. Mogel points out that no one is born feeling grateful; it's an acquired skill. It is our responsibility to practice it, model it, and teach it to our children. She offers some concrete suggestions:

- Don't let shopping become your most frequent outing.
- Recite the Jewish blessing before meals.
- Watch your words and distinguish between things you need and things you want.
- At a Shabbat meal, share aloud the things you are grateful for this week.
- Slow down and watch what your child appreciates in the natural world.
- Give back to your community.

Judaism values deed over creed. When we want to change our attitude, first we must change our behavior. In this season of extra enticing commercials, sales, and pop-up ads, may we find the strength to temper our materialistic desires and learn to count our many blessings.

L'Shalom,

Andrea
