Bring a Friend: Learner's Shabbat

Join us on Friday, February 21 for "Learner's Shabbat." This special service, beginning at 7pm, will focus on the structure of our Friday night worship and the meaning of core prayers. Explanations will be offered throughout the service and many prayers will be offered in English in order to highlight their meaning. A question and answer period will be held following services as part of the oneg reception.

The congregation is encouraged to invite their friends of all faiths to join them for this special Shabbat. The Learner's Shabbat is a wonderful opportunity for anyone interested in learning more about Jewish ritual and prayer.

For more information on this unique Shabbat experience please contact Rabbi Joel Fleekop at 850-438-3321 or rabbi@templebethelofpensacola.org.

Torah Study: New Book & New Dates

Just in time for the holiday of Purim, our study of the Five Megillot will turn its attention to the Book of Esther. Revisit this familiar story through the lens provided by critical scholarship, rabbinic tradition, and insights of our conversation.

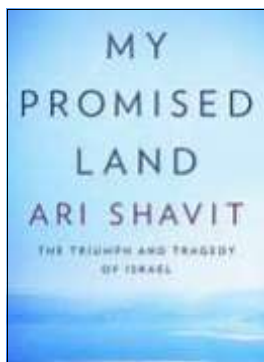

Due to other Temple events this month, Torah study will be held on February 8 and February 22. Study begins at 9:30 and bagels and shmeor are served.

Torah study is open to learners of all ages and abilities and newcomers are always welcome. For more information contact Rabbi Joel Fleekop.

Rabbi Joel Fleekop

“...it is critical for us to stay engaged with the ongoing debate and discussion about the future of the Jewish State.”

From the Rabbi

Israel: Continuing the Conversation

Whether we encountered Leon Uris’ novel, Exodus, as a new release in 1958, found it buried on a bookcase decades later, or watched the movie of the same name, the heroic tale of Ari Ben Canaan likely played a role in shaping our understanding and relationship with the state of Israel.

The influence of Exodus, of course, transcended the Jewish community, helping to sway popular opinion in America from largely apathetic to actively interested in the wellbeing of the Jewish state.

In today’s fragmented media world it is unlikely that any book or movie could have as significant and widespread an effect as Uris’ novel. But Ari Shavit’s new work, “My Promised Land” has drawn more attention and conversation than any Israel related book in years.

Shavit, a member of the editorial board at Haaretz, Israel’s paper of record, tells the history of Israel from 1897 through the Knesset elections of 2013 elections by focusing on sixteen moments in the nation’s past (and not the ones you would expect). The story Shavit recalls is that of a country and a region, but also personal, with his family and friends prominently featured.

Beautifully written, “My Promised Land” is likely, in equal measure, to challenge and affirm your feelings about Israel -- no matter what those feelings may be. As Leon Wieseltier noted in his New York Times review, “My Promised Land” startles in many ways, not least in its relative lack of interest in providing its readers with handy politics.”

Winner of the National Jewish Book Award and named one of 2013’s must-reads by both The Economist and The New York Times, “My Promised Land” has quickly become an important part of the Israel discussion. A best seller since its November debut, it has been featured in opinion pieces by Thomas Friedman, David Brooks, and others. Equally important, it has been the topic of book discussion groups at synagogues and Jewish community centers across the country.

It is time for Temple Beth El to join the conversation. A special book discussion co-sponsored by the Brotherhood book group, will be held on Thursday, February 27 at 6:00 pm. I strongly encourage everyone to read the book in advance so you can fully participate. Print and digital copies are available online through Amazon, iTunes, and other vendors. There are also 3 loaner copies available in the Temple library.

If you are unable to read the book, still feel free to attend. I think you will gain by listening to the conversation. As people who care passionately about Israel, it is critical for us to stay engaged with the ongoing debate and discussion about the future of the Jewish State. Please join me in discussing Ari Shavit’s “My Promised Land”, the latest chapter in this most important conversation.

From the President

For the past three months I have been undergoing radiation and hormone treatment for prostate cancer. As you can imagine, it has re-focused my life and that of my family on successfully completing the therapy and returning to a degree of normalcy. The therapy has the unfortunate side effects of discomfort and extreme fatigue. In January, I completed the radiation portion of the therapy, but will continue the hormone injections, for some time to come. During this time I have been supported by my vice president, Janet Kahn, who has borne the brunt of the workload of both offices. She continues to be an inspirational, highly intelligent, supportive and dedicated member of the Temple's leadership. I have nothing but praise for her many acts of kindness to me and dedication to the welfare of the Congregation. I would also like to thank Rabbi Joel for his support of me and my family and his understanding of this special situation.

Temple seniors have been invited to a special lunch discussion with Rabbi Joel on either February 5th or 12th in the Max L. Bear Social Hall. The luncheons, planned solely for the seniors of our Temple family, are an opportunity to share with Rabbi Fleekop their fondest memories and future dreams for our community. We hope that this will become a yearly event.

Those members who attend service monthly at Azalea Trace will be happy to learn that we have acquired 20 additional copies of the Union Prayerbook from Congregation Beth Israel in Charleston, West Virginia.

You will be pleased to know that our new telephone system will be operational by the time congregants read this article and has the potential to facilitate communications, database and building access, and somewhere down the road, the possibility of streaming Shabbat services and special events. Sid Braunstien has worked very hard to bring this system to fruition, and deserves your special thanks. Our administrator, Kathy Smith, who labored under the present dysfunctional system for more than a month, is excited about the new phone system.

L'shalom,
Fred

URJ Biennial Bite:

A Message from Rabbi Jonah Pesner

Thousands of us, including hundreds of teens and young adults, gathered at the recent URJ Biennial to ratify our long-term commitment to engage the next generation in Jewish life. We heard the compelling voices of young people reminding us: they are seeking meaning and want to make a difference. The Reform Movement stands ready to offer them opportunities to bring more meaning into their lives and together we can transform the world for the better. With the launching of the URJ's new youth engagement strategic plan, every congregation in our movement will begin to experience the impact of Inspired Engagement, rolling out between now and fall 2014.

Some highlights:

- NFTY will begin offering age-appropriate programming to 6th graders.
- NFTY will be open to any teen who wants to participate.
- URJ and HUC-JIR will launch professional development training seminars for congregational based youth professionals beginning in spring 2014.
- In honor of NFTY's 75th anniversary the URJ will reconnect with 75,000 alumni of our youth programs between now and February 2015, to reengage adults as mentors, advocates and supporters of our young people.

Sisterhood Notes

Last month's Sisterhood Shabbat talk by Sydney McAbee was so moving we wanted to share it.

The Meaning of Sisterhood

According to Webster's English Dictionary Sisterhood is a community of women bound by a common bond. It is an association, society, or community of women linked by a common interest, religion, or trade. At Temple Beth-el our bonds are many. Of course there is religion, but even more, we are bound by our quest to do what is expected of us in regard to Temple Life and Community Service. Along the way, we form bonds of friendship and common interest.

In November of 2013, Women of Reform Judaism celebrated their 100th Anniversary. In 1891, we began our involvement with Sisterhood as the Hebrew Ladies Benevolent Guild. In 1921, the guild joined the National Federation of Temple Sisterhoods, and so became the Temple Beth Sisterhood. Today we are still that same group with so much history and with many members of families of generations past.

We are not born of the same family, yet we are sisters in every sense of the word. Some of us did not play together as children, nor did we celebrate together the milestones of growing up, going off to school, marrying and raising families. We did not attend one another's Bar and Bat Mitzvahs, nor were we there to hold one another's hands when a child was critically ill or a parent dying. Some of us do not have memories beyond the time we moved to this corner of Paradise. Many of us at Temple Beth-el have shared these milestones and are so much closer because of it. Many of us have been in this corner of Paradise for as long as we can remember. When each of us chose to enter the doors of our synagogue, we BECAME one another's family. In a sense, we adopted---and were adopted by---one another. There is a common bond that unites us in spirit and in love, though we could never have known that this would happen.

Some of us are in our golden years, while others have not yet discovered the first strands of silver in their hair... or perhaps have found them and decided to cover them up! Some of us are married, others divorced or widowed...or perhaps living alone or with a partner, by choice. Some of us have children and grandchildren, even greats...other do not. There is enormous variety in our educational backgrounds and our chosen professions. Among ourselves, we have a vast array of talents to share. And yet, different as we are, we feel that unmistakable pull towards one another.

Our Sisterhood was formed as a natural outgrowth of our need and our desire to be together. As a viable group, we have embarked upon many projects, in the spirit of fun and sharing, while benefiting our Temple Community as well as the greater community in which we live. Naturally, not everyone is interested in the same things or to the same extent. But one thing is certain: we are unmistakably sisters---sisters by choice, by design, by destiny; sisters in our hearts.

And no one and nothing can ever weaken the bond of love and friendship that keep us fused together as one.

Amen

Bimah Flower Fund Created

In order to make sure that we have flowers for each Sabbath service, the Sisterhood has added a bimah flower fund. You may make contributions to this fund in any denomination. When there is not a sponsor for Shabbat, flowers will be purchased from this fund. Make your checks payable to Temple Beth El Sisterhood and please note "flower fund" on the memo line.

The Easiest Donation You'll Ever Make

Chances are you are reading this bulletin after clicking a link on our website (<http://templebethelofpensacola.org>). If you look at the bottom of the home page you will see a banner ad for Amazon. By clicking on that ad and placing an order, you are contributing a percentage of your order to Temple Beth El. The best part is that it costs you not a single penny more.

If you're like me, it's easy to go right to Amazon and realize you forgot all about going to our website first. All is not lost. What I do is leave my order in the shopping cart, go to our website and then click the banner ad. It brings you right back to Amazon and your order is still in the shopping cart, ready to purchase. What a simple way to make a donation to the Temple. It will be appreciated!

ICE

Do you know that acronym means
In Case of Emergency?

In order to serve Temple Beth El well, we want to ensure that our congregants are watched over. Jaime Montero heads the Temple Beth El telephone communications tree. Would you or someone you know, like to be contacted during an emergency situation such as extreme cold or a storm? Please contact Jaime at Selloquinto@yahoo.com or 254-681-6387 so that he can add your name to his ICE calling list. Thank you!

New Membership Chairman – Rich Cacace

I am very pleased to take over the duties of Membership from our Vice President, Janet Kahn. This is an exciting period for our congregation. Thanks to the efforts of Rabbi and Andrea Fleekop and many others within the Temple Beth El family, there is a palpable excitement for the future of the congregation. It goes without saying that a congregation cannot exist without membership. Some things can be funded by donations, but it takes a strong membership to ensure the smooth operation of the Temple, including the physical structure, maintenance, and regular events. It's the job of the Membership Committee to ensure that membership stays strong and grows.

As you might imagine, there are many aspects to this position that require a creative approach, especially in tough economic times. It also requires the efforts of many people, but, unfortunately, Janet Kahn and I are currently the only members on the committee. So, my first order of business as the chair of this committee is to grow the committee's membership by appealing to you, the congregant, for assistance. The duties of the Membership Committee are rewarding, yet not difficult. All it takes is just a little time to yield a big result. If you have any interest in assisting in the vital function of Temple life, please contact me at rncacace@gmail.com.

Educator's Message: Mitzvah Day

On Sunday, January 19, School for Jewish Living students participated in Mitzvah Day. After a discussion about Jewish responsibility to justice and the shared values of Judaism and Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., our students performed acts of justice.

Our younger students participated in three projects. They made busy book packets for children to use in hospital waiting rooms, get well cards for Rabbi Joel to deliver to people he visits, and Care Kits for the Homeless, filling warm socks with hygiene items.

Our older students learned about the history of our Temple cemetery with Judge Chuck and Janet Kahn and then performed needed clean up. While raking leaves and picking up trash, our students read headstone inscriptions and were very interested in learning more about our congregation's long history. Upon return from the cemetery, both parents and students highly praised this wonderful learning experience.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. said, "Everybody can be great... because anybody can serve. You don't have to have a college degree to serve. You don't have to make your subject and verb agree to serve. You only need a heart full of grace. A soul generated by love."

May our children inspire us to serve.

L'Shalom,
Andrea

February B'nai Mitzvah

On February 15, 2014 Spencer Brent Segal, son of Julie and Frank Segal, will be called to the bimah to become a Bar Mitzvah. Spencer is 13 and a 7th grader at Woodlawn Beach Middle School in Gulf Breeze. His favorite hobbies are sports—football, baseball, basketball and playing Xbox.

Since Spencer is so involved in sports he has picked raising funds for Maccabi USA as his Bar Mitzvah project. Jewish athletes for the US compete every 4 years in Israel at the World Maccabiah Games. Flyers about donating to his Bar Mitzvah project are located in the downstairs hall information rack.

On March 1, 2014, Ben Suhrbier, son of Dave and Jan Suhrbier will be called to the bimah to become a Bar Mitzvah.

His passions are acting and singing in theatre productions, tap dancing, and making Lego creations.

Ben's Mitzvah project was to renovate the Temple playroom by cleaning the room and replacing old toys with new ones.

Kitchen Kibbitz by Janet Schilling

I am just back from Atlanta where Logan and I participated in the Hot Chocolate 15K and 5K race. And it is a good thing that it was a Hot Chocolate race, because the temperature at race time was in the low twenties!!! We really enjoyed that hot chocolate at the end of the race, clutching our cups with numb fingers.

One of our favorites restaurants in Atlanta is Souper Jenny. The story behind this restaurant is very interesting. The owner, Jenny, was an aspiring actress waiting tables in California who realized she liked food better than acting. She opened an adorable restaurant in Buckhead, serving amazing soup, sandwiches, salad, bread, and cookies. The menu changes every day, which is part of the fun. One of the soups on the menu the day we were there is her Chicken Tortilla Soup. It is cheesy and delicious! I hope the cold weather doesn't stay around too long, but if it does I am ready with recipes from a favorite restaurant.

Souper Jenny's Chicken Tortilla Soup
Recipe Source: Souper Jenny
Serves 4

- Ingredients:
- 1/2 onion, chopped
  - 2 carrots, peeled and chopped
  - 2 stalks celery, chopped
  - 1 14 oz can diced tomatoes
  - 6 cups chicken broth
  - 1 tablespoon chili powder
  - 1/2 medium bag tortilla chips
  - 2 chicken breasts, baked and shredded, or
  - 1/2 rotisserie chicken, shredded
  - 8 oz cheddar cheese, shredded
  - 1 cup cilantro, chopped

Directions:
Put the onion, carrots, celery, tomatoes, chicken broth, and chili powder in a large stock pot and boil. Lower heat and simmer for 45 minutes. Add the chips (crush first) and simmer for 20 more minutes, until they are blended in with the soup. Add the chicken and stir. Turn heat low and add the cheese, stir. Serve the soup in bowls and top with cilantro. Add hot sauce if you wish!
