Rabbi Joel Fleekop

"As a holy community, it is critically important that we, its members, be open to listening and to creating opportunities for sharing."

From the Rabbi

How are you doing?

A few years back a commercial aired during the Super Bowl in which a man walks into a bar and when asked how he is doing proceeds, to the bartender's dismay, to give a long explanation about how he just got into town and is excited to see his sister. As soon as he is done speaking, someone else sits down next to him and asks, "How are you doing." The question is met with the same detailed response. This sequence is repeated several times, with the others in the bar groaning each time a newcomer asks, in one form or another, "How are you doing?"

The commercial makes a joke at the expense of the man for failing to recognize that in much of America "How are you doing?" is not a real question, but rather a customary greeting. A proper response might be "Good, how about you?" or "Alright, how are you doing?" The content of one's response doesn't really matter. What matters, is that the response is brief.

The evolution, however, of a question about another's well being into a greeting one offers casually and in passing has come at a cost. What words should we use when we truly want to know how someone is doing? When we wish to share with others how we are feeling or reach out for help, how can we be confident that we aren't "over-sharing" or "unloading" on someone who isn't really that interested?

This month Jews around the world celebrate the holiday of Shavuot. As part of our observance we read from the Book of Ruth. The story highlights the selflessness and loyalty of Ruth and Boaz. But in addition to their examples, we can also learn from the model set by Ruth's mother-in-law, Naomi.

As described in the first chapter, Naomi's life has been difficult. Driven from her hometown of Bethlehem by famine, Naomi's husband and two sons died while living abroad in Moab. As the chapter comes to a close, Naomi returns to the land of her birth where the women of the town meet her.

Though scholars disagree as to whether the towns-women's question "Is this Naomi?" is a joyous one in seeing her return or one of disbelief in seeing this once proud and noble woman so humbled, what is clear is that Naomi finds it necessary to share with the women how she feels, to give this ancient version of the question, "How are you doing?" an honest answer. She replies,

Do not call me Naomi – pleasantness. Call me Mara – bitterness, for Shaddai has made my lot very bitter. I went away full, and the Eternal has brought me back empty. How can you call me Naomi, when the Eternal has dealt harshly with me, when Shaddai has brought misfortune upon me!

Naomi's words are a powerful and raw expression of emotion. Though not entirely accurate, she has a daughter-in-law who will play an important role in her rehabilitation, they provide an opening for others to reach out to her in assistance.

This is not the only time Naomi shares with others how she is feeling. As the Book of Ruth draws to a close, the women of Bethlehem again speak to Naomi, offering words of blessing following the birth of Ruth and Boaz's son. As she responded earlier to the women, Naomi answers their words with a show of emotion. She publicly embraces the child, an expression of her joy and an invitation for others to share in her happiness.

As a synagogue community it is critically important that individuals, like Naomi, feel comfortable sharing and expressing their emotions, both in times of joy and happiness, as well as distress and sadness. As a holy community, it is critically important that we, its members, be open to listening and to creating opportunities for sharing.

Thankfully opportunities for sharing and listening already exist in everything we do, as in everything we do our community members have the opportunity to interact with one another. All that is missing is for us to truly ask and honestly answer the question, "How are you doing?"

Rabbi Joel

From the President

Our year is flying by. On March 14th, Dr Ed Siegel brought a young singer, Joo-hoe "Peppy" Koo, and did a benefit concert. They raised $562 for the Sylvia Cole Music Fund! We use this fund to support choir expenses and High Holy Day music. The music was great. We are looking forward to more. Thank you, Eddie.

As usual, April was very busy. I hope that everyone had a wonderful Passover. Our Sisterhood worked very hard providing a first class Seder. We were full with almost 100 people in the Max L Bear Social Hall. Rabbi Joel's first Seder with us was an event to remember.

Our first Sha-Bark in the Park was a total success. Our four-legged companions met and schmoozed while we sang and bonded. Rabbi Joel did a Saturday service and we all appreciated our outdoor surroundings.

How many ways can we say thank you for the events that transpired in April? Belle and Lewis Bear sponsored a Scholar in Residence, Rabbi Marshal Klaven. He spoke of his book, "A Taste of Torah". I hope that you all had a chance to attend at least part of the activities that took place that weekend. Thank you Belle and Lewis.

The Robert H. Kahn Jr. Family Foundation sponsored a special speaker, Dr. Walter Brueggemann, at First Presbyterian Church. Dr. Brueggemann is an American biblical scholar who provided interesting insights into aspects of the Old Testament. Thank you Suzanne and Bobby.

Rodney and Cricket Rich opened their house to the congregation for an unforgettable Shabbat Under the Stars. Setting up these events is a lot of work. Thank you, Rodney and Cricket.

It was, indeed, a special month for all of us. The reason Temple Beth El is so vibrant and alive is thanks to our wonderful, generous congregants!

May is also packed with important events. On Friday, May 3rd, we will join together to honor our very special people...our teachers. Services will be at 6pm with a potluck dinner. The first Saturday brings our ever-popular Sisterhood Theater Night. Remember, the proceeds go towards camp scholarships. Please be generous. Renee and her crazy group have been working hard. You will not be disappointed.

On May 10th, we will hold a Community Interfaith Service at 7pm. Please invite your friends and neighbors. Then on the 17th, we will be holding our first Volunteer Recognition Shabbat. Our volunteers are a very important part of our Temple. Without them, we couldn't function.

As I near the end of my term as your president, I remind you that this month brings us our Annual Meeting at 2pm on Sunday, May 19th in the Max L Bear Social Hall. Circle that day and plan to attend. We will be electing new officers and directors and we need you!

Finishing out the month, we will be holding a Veteran's Day Dinner on Wednesday, the 22nd. Neal Schneider is organizing the event. We all owe a debt of gratitude to our members who served in the Armed Forces. This event gives us an opportunity to thank them for their service.

As our first year with Rabbi Joel slowly draws to a close, please make it a point to let him know how he is doing. He has been, and will continue to be, a breath of fresh air for Temple Beth El. I have been honored to have worked with him in his initial year at our Temple.

Finally, I want to wish all our mothers a Happy Mother's Day. See you all at Temple...and at the Annual Meeting

L'Shalom,

Sisterhood Notes

Shalom, Y'all! April for the Sisterhood always means tons of rehearsals in preparation for our May show, and, believe me, we have all been hamming it up (am I allowed to say that?) for your enjoyment. We hope you will all join us on May 4th for the now re-named "Braunstien's Deli", and support our efforts to raise money for camp scholarships. Almost twice as many kids will be attending camp this summer as last summer, and it is a very important piece of each child's Jewish identity. So come laugh with us (and at us!)...it's a fun way to help!!!

We had a well-attended luncheon this past month, with Rabbi Joel helping us learn about Jewish funeral/mourning traditions, because many of us asked about that. As usual, Rabbi was a great speaker, and we want to thank him so much for educating us on a subject we don't realize until it's too late that we don't know enough about. Thank you, Rabbi.

May holds our last formal meeting of the year. On Thursday evening, May 16th, at 6:00 p.m. we are having a catered dinner at the Temple with a lovely musical program. More details to follow, but be sure to save the date.

One more thing....as is becoming somewhat of a tradition, we got together in April (this time at my house) for a women's Rosh Chodesh celebration, with our Sisterhood and B'Nai Israel's Sisterhood coming together to learn, and also to talk about our month, and who in the community may need our help and how we can take care of our own. It's a lovely evening, and we try to bring that sense of community back to each of our congregations. Life is a Cabaret!!

Renee and Marty

Chuppah Project!

It is not too late to participate in this project. We are still handing out pieces to be embroidered. Contact Marty Lisner at 850 474-4149 or 850 380-1467 if you would like to join us in this great work for the Temple.

Many Thanks

Dan and I would like to thank everyone who supported us following the loss of our son Michael. You have surrounded us with love, concern, comfort, consolation, and food at a time when it was truly needed. Thank you for coming to the services and the shiva. Your presence and compassion meant so much to both of us.

School for Jewish Living

Educator's Message: Jewish All Year (Summer included!)

Many of us look forward to the summer. Children and teachers look forward to some free time to spend outside, at the beach, at a BBQ, at camp, or on vacation. It is often a time for gatherings with family and friends and in general, it is a more relaxed time of the year.

Summer, however, need not be a break from Temple or living a Jewish life. Shabbat and other Temple events still happen; in fact summer Shabbat services are followed by joyful dinners. Outside the walls of Temple, living a life informed by Jewish values and teachings is something we can choose to embrace daily (yes, even in the summer!)

With more free time, summer may be the perfect time to experiment with Jewish practices. Without the school year time crunch of homework and after school activities, perhaps dinners are a bit less rushed—what a perfect time to start saying HaMotzei together before digging in. With more daylight and warmer weather, we tend to spend more time outdoors—what a great time to pause and take note of the beauty of God's creations. There are so many mitzvot we can fulfill each and every day; the trick is to slow down and embrace them. It is at this point that we actively engage in living a Jewish life in fall, winter, spring, and even summer!

Wishing you and your family a wonderful summer full of relaxation and traditions—old and new!

Andrea Fleekop, Director

Todah Rabbah! Many Thanks to our Teachers!

I would like to thank all of our wonderful teachers for their generosity, flexibility, and dedication to our children, to the School for Jewish Living, and to our Temple. Todah Rabbah to Jan and Shaina Suhrbier, Sarah Tucker, Pat Braunstien, Sara Schlesinger, Cindy Gross, Josh Zimmern, and Rabbi Joel Fleekop. Thank-you to all the volunteers who make our program run smoothly and a special thank-you to Dr. Dave Suhrbier for providing breakfast each Sunday.

Andrea Fleekop

Sha-Bark in the Bark A Woofing Success

On a beautiful spring morning 25 humans and their canine companions joined at Bayview Park for an informal Shabbat morning service, the blessing of pets, and to share a picnic lunch. The dogs, big and small, all got along wonderfully and everyone enjoyed the chance to celebrate Shabbat with friends in such a relaxed setting.

If you missed this year's "Sha-Bark in the Park" we hope you will be able to join us next year.

New in the Jonathan L. Kahn Library

Dear Jonathan L. Kahn
Library readers,

Our library is proud to introduce two new books for your reading pleasure--- Taste of Torah (a little nosh of d'rash), incorporates modern Torah commentaries with holiday appropriate southern Jewish recipes. Challah Bread Puddin' with apples and honey (and topped with Bourbon sauce) is truly a spiritual Taste of Torah. The book is edited by Rabbi Michael Klaven, our April Scholar in Residence from ISJL.

The book introduction from Rabbi Klaven reads: "A special thank you to the Lewis Bear Family Foundation, which provided the funding to turn this dream into reality. Their generosity is an extension of a deep personal relationship first developed when I officiated the wedding of Lewis Bear, III to Jenn Taylor. They not only invited me into this meaningful moment for their family: they welcomed me with open arms and loving hearts into their family. For that tremendous human and financial generosity, I will be eternally grateful. On behalf of all the congregations, who will be supported through the sale of this book (100% of the proceeds will go to fulfilling the mission of the ISJL), I thank you from the depths of my heart."

"To BE With God 12000 B.C –2012 A.D. Despite Limitations of the Brain", was conceived, edited, and co-authored by our very own Edward A. Siegel, M.D. The book, a synthesis of all major religions' belief systems shows how much we all have in common. The diverse co-authors range from close relationships around the world, and include Eddie's personal friendship with our own Rabbi Len Zukrow. The only "co-author" that is not personally known to Dr. Siegel is his Holiness the Dalai Lama. Scenes from Dr. Siegel's Pensacola Florida childhood, and family, will certainly have great meaning for many of our congregants----especially the reminder from his mother, Ida, to just be yourself, Eddie! The book is a most satisfying read.

Sincerely,
Shirley Kraselsky
Library Chair

Young, Jewish Pensacola

On Tuesday, April 12 nearly 20 people attended Young, Jewish, Pensacola's "Sushi Shmooze" at Atlas Oyster House. The group that gathered was diverse, including those who grew up at Temple Beth El, Jewish "20 and 30 somethings" new to the area, and personnel stationed at NAS Pensacola. With drinks and conversation flowing everyone had a good time. Thank you to Maria Goldberg and Atlas for their hospitality.

Young, Jewish, Pensacola is an initiative of Temple Beth El designed to engage Jewish young adults (and their significant others). Gatherings are held monthly. To learn more about this exciting program please contact Rabbi Joel at 850-438-3321.

POKER TOURNAMENT PLANNING BEGINS

We are having our sixth annual poker tournament on August 3, 2013 at 6:00 p.m. This is our largest fund raiser, and I am seeking permission to earmark a portion of these funds towards the kitchen, which is in a sad state of disrepair. Not only do I need Jewish poker players, but I will need helpers as usual. Chuck Lisner has already been gracious enough to buy some deluxe gifts from the commissary at a discount and I am hoping that Rodney Rich will serve as our treasurer once again. The sooner players sign up, the better so that I can get a head count and begin purchasing prizes. You can either send a $100 check payable to Temple Beth El to Kathy or if you see me I can accept those funds as well. Lets get together and make this the most successful poker tournament ever.

SEDER THANKS

Thanks to everyone who came to the Temple Seder and helped make it a huge success. Rabbi Fleekop's first Seder was well-attended by 100 and on the last day, we had to turn folks away. The food was great, the enthusiasm was high, Andrea was in great voice and Rabbi's Power Point Hagadah (and hard copies) was well received. Special thanks to Renee, Marty, Alice, Kathy and all those who brought something and helped Sunday and Monday--it takes a village--or in this case, a Sisterhood!

Pat Langnau, Chair

Joel Levin has just received the G. Harold Martin Fellowship Award from Key Club International. This award recognizes people who unselfishly contribute their time and resources to the Key Club Program.

Sarah Tucker has been named Outstanding Math Student for Escambia County.

PJ Library

PJ Library has had a good year and has continued to keep our enrollment at approximately 75 children, This is all due in part to our local Pensacola Jewish Federation and also PJ Library and the Harold Grinspoon Foundation. Ages range from six months to 8 years old. Children "age out" at the end of their 8th year.

PJ Library provides FREE Jewish books and music to all Jewish children in our community within the age limits mentioned above, Temple affiliation is not required. This is such a wonderful program with books being delivered right to your door. What a special time to have with your child, reading one of the many delightful Jewish stories.

An important note about changing your address: if you are moving you can go to the PJ Library website at www.PJLibrary.org to make the change. Go to "Communities" click on "Find your PJ Community" which takes you to a map; click on FL and then look for Pensacola and address change. The sooner you do this the better because you do not want to miss a single book!!
