From the Rabbi

Two Vignettes of Community (or Why I Love Being a Rabbi)

By the time the blast of Tekiah Gedolah fades from the sanctuary at the close of Yom Kippur, I, like many in the congregation, am exhausted physically and mentally. This year, however, the exhaustion did not last long. My “batteries” were quickly recharged by energy that filled our Temple community. Below are just two vignettes of the special and sacred moments that took place the week following Yom Kippur.

Vignette 1
There aren't many places in the modern world where adults and children, at least those not related to one another, interact in a meaningful way. The morning after Yom Kippur the Temple Beth El parking lot became one of those rare places.

The Temple Brotherhood arrived early to assemble metal poles into the frame of a sukkah and to cut the palm fronds that would serve as the schach – the temporary shelter's roof. Just as soon as the sharp tools were put away, students from the School for Jewish Living began to arrive. Some joined the Brotherhood in affixing the Sukkah's mesh walls. Others got to work creating decorations for the Sukkah. With the day growing ever warmer, most of the kids and adults retired to the air conditioned comfort of the social hall where they enjoyed a hot dog lunch, prepared on the Brotherhood's new grill. As they dined, a few hearty souls stayed outside to add the roof and hang decorations.

At high noon an unusual collection of school-aged children and middle-aged men assembled in the parking lot. They put the final touches on the sukkah and then stepped back to appreciate the finished product. Looking at the group, there were youthful heads of long, flowing hair and the bare scalps that come with age, bodies bouncing with the inexhaustible energy of youth, and those, like my own, keen for a nap. But for all their differences, those assembled had come together for shared purposes: to build a sukkah, to spend time with friends, to celebrate Jewish life. Though difficult to explain, all of these things seemed more worthwhile because they had been done one generation with another.

Early on a Wednesday afternoon a group of men gathered at Barrancas National Cemetery. They were there for the funeral of someone they had never met. In fact, even after ar-iving there was little they would learn of the deceased, aside from the individual's name, place of birth, rank, branch of service, and that he was Jewish. Still they came to offer this unknown individual a dignified burial. In coming, they affirmed the value that Judaism places on all humanity; all of us are created B'tzelem Eloheim – in the image of God.

A funeral in which no one is there to eulogize or share memories of the deceased is horribly tragic. But as I left the cemetery my feelings of sadness were mixed with pride. It is a true honor to be part of a community of such fine individuals and to share a tradition that inspires such acts of kindness.

Rabbi Joel

“It is a true honor to be part of a community of such fine individuals and to share a tradition that inspires such acts of kindness.”

From the President

The echoes of the High Holy Days and the joy of Sukkot are now a part of our personal memories. It is October and great to be Jewish at Temple Beth El.

Mazel Tov and congratulations are due for the superb efforts of Rabbi Fleekop and Gabi Lapidus. They made the High Holy Days worship particularly meaningful. We are very blessed to have them both as a part of our family. The ritual committee provided unparalleled service in supporting the work that went into the service arrangements. It goes without saying, that the myriad details and arrangements were professionally and skillfully managed by our Temple Administrator, Kathy Smith and Janet Kahn our Vice President. As the lights faded on Yom Kippur evening, the efforts of Linda Armacost in managing the break-the-fast dinner were sincerely appreciated by the Temple. Pat Braunstien decorated the tables and they were beautifully and tastefully done. Thanks also go to Steve and Renee Eilen for sponsoring the Rosh Hashanah luncheon. There were many other contributors to the High Holidays and they are appreciated. I always marvel that whatever our differences when the High Holy Days arrive, we are one people, one set of volunteers and one Temple. I hope that spirit continues until the next High Holy Days.

Our work on assessing the costs and producing a viable and affordable plan for upgrading the Temple facilities can't come too soon. Failure of our sanctuary's antique air conditioning (in air conditioner years-it's my age) and the deteriorating state of the kitchen focused everyone's comments and attention on the need for action. I assure you that we are working on a viable plan of action for the upgrade of the Temple facilities.

The new Temple Beth El vision, mission, and values statements, which will form the core of the forthcoming Temple long range plan, were approved by the Board at the request of the committee chair, Ray Engel. The approval will give the committee the guidance it needs to fill in the plan and complete their work. The plan will be presented in whole for Board approval. I will then call a special Congregational meeting to discuss and approve the plan for implementation. Ray and his committee have done legion service for our Temple. They deserve the thanks of the Congregation.

Ray Engel and David Suhrbier will assume co-chairs of the Ritual Committee. Rich Cacace, who leaves the chair of the Ritual Committee, will move to become the chair of the Membership Committee. Thank you Rich for a job well done. Additionally, Danny Zimmern has accepted chair of the House Committee, replacing Chris Shawyer. Chris will now chair the By-laws Committee. Congratulations to Danny and Chris.

The URJ Biennial Meeting will be held from December 11-13 in San Diego. I have sent out a notice to the Congregation with registration information for those who are interested in attending. Some limited funding is available to support the attendant costs. Rabbi Fleekop will be attending the Biennial.

We should all be very excited by the Read Hebrew America program that Bill Kuhhirte will be teaching in October. Rabbi Joel will be conducting A Taste of Judaism course in October as well.

As I asked during my Yom Kippur remarks to the Congregation, please feel free to offer me your personal comments, suggestions and criticisms. I need your help, your advice, your personal commitment to our programs and your ideas.

L'Shalom,

Fred

Educator's Message: New Year, New ISJL Fellow

The School for Jewish Living welcomes 43 students, 6 teachers, 3 madrichim (teaching assistants), and our new Education Fellow from the ISJL (Institute for Southern Jewish Life), Elaine Barenblat. Partnering with the ISJL Education Department provides communities with religious school curriculum, an annual education conference, and an Education Fellow.

Elaine is originally from San Antonio, TX and received her degree from the University of North Texas in early childhood and special education. She is thrilled to be joining us!

Education Fellows serve for two years as a primary resource person to the 77 congregations across the South who subscribe to the ISJL Education program. This year Elaine is part of an 11-person team that collaborates to improve and serve these communities.

Over the course of the 2013-2014 school year, Elaine will visit Temple Beth El three times, summer, fall, and spring. In August, Elaine participated in Torah on Tap and led a presentation during the teacher, madrich, and education committee beginning of the year meeting. She also was with us from September 27th through the 29th and she participated in Shabbat services, Torah study, and the School for Jewish Living Sukkah Sleepover.

Please join me in welcoming Elaine Barenblat to our congregation. Elaine can be contacted by e-mail at ebarenblat@isjl.org or by phone at (601)362-6357.

Kitchen Kibbitz by Janet Schilling

A Tribute to a Friend.....

Last month we said goodbye to our dear friend Herman. Many of you may not know this, but Herman and I shared a connection beyond the Temple. We both attended Atlantic City High School! As a matter of fact, Herman walked the halls of ACHS with my mother. We often spent time talking about the restaurants we both enjoyed in Atlantic City which stood the test of time. And we both agreed that the cheesecake could not be beat at Shumsky's. The recipe I am including this month is not Shumsky's original, but is my favorite cheesecake and I am sure Herman would not object. I will miss our conversations and his gentle manner. May his memory be for a blessing.

Basic Cheesecake from Ina Garten

For the Crust

1 1/2 c. graham cracker crumbs (10 crackers)
1 Tbsp. sugar
6 Tbsp (3/4 stick) unsalted butter, melted

For the Filling

2 1/2 lbs cream cheese at room temperature
1 1/2 c. sugar
5 large eggs at room temperature

2 egg yolks at room temperature
1/4 c. sour cream
1 Tbsp. grated lemon zest (from 2 lemons)
1 1/2 tsp. pure vanilla extract

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.
To make the crust, combine the graham crackers, sugar, and melted butter until moistened. Pour into a 9-inch springform pan. With your hands, press the crumbs into the bottom of the pan and about 1 inch up the sides. Bake for 8 minutes. Cool to room temperature.

Raise oven temperature to 400 degrees.

To make the filling, cream the cream cheese and sugar in the bowl of an electric mixer fitted with a paddle attachment on medium-high speed until light and fluffy, about 5 minutes. Reduce the speed of the mixer to medium and add the eggs and egg yolks, two at a time, mixing well. Scrape down the bowl as necessary. With the mixer on low, add the sour cream, lemon zest, and vanilla. Mix thoroughly and pour into the cooled crust.

Bake for 15 minutes. Turn the oven temperature down to 225 degrees and bake for another 1 hour and 15 minutes. Turn the oven off and open the door wide. The cake will not be completely set in the center. Allow the cake to sit in the oven with the door open for 30 minutes. Take the cake out of the oven and allow it to sit at room temperature for another 2 to 3 hours until completely cooled. Wrap and refrigerate overnight. Remove the cake from the springform pan by carefully running a hot knife around the outside of the cake. Leave the cake on the bottom of the springform pan for serving on a platter.

Serves 12-15

Ina's note: The quintessential cheesecake: creamy but light with vanilla and lemon undertones. Amazingly, it doesn't crack in the middle!

Janet's note: It really does NOT crack!!! Looks beautiful even untopped, but can be topped with fruit or glaze of your choice.

The Rothschild family extends its heartfelt gratitude to the congregation of Temple Beth El for their love and support during this time of grief for the loss of its beloved Herman. A special thanks to Rose and Bill Kuhhirte for their attentive care.
